Description

In the International Sales Commission Contract a relationship is established whereby a person or company (Agent) acts as a sales agent on behalf of the exporting company (Principal), introducing its products to potential buyers in a foreign market.

The Agent's remuneration is only through a commission which is established as a percentage on the sales made and effectively collected by the Principal. There is no employment relationship between the Agent and the Principal, and their relationship is purely a commercial one. In this regard, on the end of this contract, the Agent shall not be entitled to receive any compensation.

In the most important aspects of the contract (exclusivity, commissions, resolution of disagreements, etc.) a number of alternatives have been suggested in order that the most appropriate version may be chosen for the purposes of whoever writes up the contract (Principal or Agent).

The language of this contract is English. It is also available in Spanish.
